Suspected honour killing in N'gud: Two arrested

Youth lodges complaint that his lover was burnt to death by her father

Mysuru, June 25 (MTY,RS& BCT)- A case of suspected honour killing has been reported from Nanjangud where a girl was allegedly burnt to death by her father and four others for having an affair with a boy who belonged to a different caste.

The girl's lover, Krishna hails from Saragur in H.D. Kote Taluk and he has complained to the Police that the girl has been killed three months ago.

The Police have now arrested two persons from Nanjangud in this connection.

In his complaint to the Saragur Police, Krishna has stated that he was in love with 19-year-old Shobha, daughter of Gurusiddegowda and Mahadevamma of Parvathipura Village in Nanjangud Taluk. Though Shobha too liked him and was willing to marry him, her parents opposed their relationship as he (Krishna) belonged to a different caste.

Krishna has stated in his complaint that he and Shobha had made up their mind to elope from their homes. "Three months back, when I met Shobha at Mullur Village in H.D. Kote Taluk, her father Gurusiddegowda came along with four persons and assaulted both of us. I somehow managed to escape but Shobha's father dragged her and threatened to kill her after taking her home," he stated.

He has suspected that Shobha would have been killed by her father as she was missing from the day of the assault. Krishna lodged a complaint with Saragur Police on June 24 (yesterday) and said that all his efforts to trace Shobha went in vain.

"I have been trying to contact her since the last three months and many of Shobha's close relatives said that she was not to be seen in the village. Also her father Gurusiddegowda has been telling his villagers that he had killed and burnt his daughter," he stated in his complaint.

Acting on the complaint, the Saragur Police have arrested Gurusiddegowda's brother and one more accused and have subjected them to intense interrogation to ascertain the facts in Krishna's complaint.

Navodaya Schools

launch mega seed ball project

Mysuru, June 25 (RKB&DM)- Navodaya School at Doddamargowdanahalli (DMG Halli) on the outskirts of the city on Mysuru-Gaddige Road, today became part of the Karnataka Navodaya Seed Ball Campaign, with the School preparing one lakh seed balls to be dispersed in lands identified by the Department of Forests.

The programme aims at producing one crore seed balls through Navodaya Vidyalaya family with co-operation from public and villagers.

The campaign was launched after two seed ball exercises carried out in Navodaya School in Shivamogga district in March this year proved successful with the production of two lakh seed balls, following which Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti, Hyderabad region, decided to extend this programme to all the 28 Navodaya Schools across Karnataka.

Speaking at the launching of the programme, DCF Dr. Karikalan lauded the Navodaya 'mission' to produce one crore seed balls.

Pointing out that the State Government and the Forest Department were supporting the campaign, he said that seed ball is a proven and tested economical method designed for large-scale afforestation.

Stressing on the need for saving our nature and environment, Dr. Karikalan noted that every member of the society can contribute to it by planting one sapling each in their neighbourhood.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Our everyday language, common words and phrases we use all the time, appears to be out of step with reality. The words 'sunrise' and 'sunset,' for example, are total misnomers, and hark back to a time before science proved that the Sun didn't 'rise' or 'set' over the Earth, but it was the Earth spinning on its axis that made it seem so.

Perhaps nowhere is this lingual mismatch with the general scheme of things more evident than in the fast-changing world of technology.

When we use our mobile phone to call another mobile number which doesn't respond, we tend to say that the other person didn't 'pick up' the phone, rather than just saying there was no response. 'Unpicked up' phones obviously refer to the landline instruments with receivers which have to be lifted up from the main body of the set in order to answer a call and which have become virtual museum pieces today. Similarly, we refer to a phone number being 'dialled,' another anachronism in an age in which keypads have long replaced the old-fashioned dialing mechanism.

In a computerised society where workplaces are increasingly becoming paperless we still stress the importance of making sure all the 'paperwork is in order' before finalising a deal.

We describe someone who keeps repeating himself as a 'stuck record,' even though recorded discs, along with the gramophones on which they were played, belong to antiquity. When battery-operated vehicles fully replace those that are fossil-fuel driven, if we want something done in a hurry will we still urge someone to 'step on the gas'?

NEWS SPARKLERS

"Wonder Coating"

London: Line-X is an ultra-durable line of spray-on coatings that is mainly marketed for use on truck beds, to make them tougher and provide protection against the elements. But this wonder spray can do so much more, including protecting a wall from an explosive blast, preventing an egg from shattering on impact when dropped from a tower, and rendering a Styrofoam cup able to withstand the weight of a full-grown adult. So what is the secret behind this amazing protective coating? Well, according to Interesting Engineering, it's basically a mixture of two different molecules – Diphenylmethane-4,4'-diisocyanate or MDI and alpha-(2-aminomethylethyl)-omega-(2-aminomethylethoxy)-poly[oxy(methyl-1,-2-ethanediyl – which undergo a rapid exothermical reaction.

The reaction between the molecules creates very long molecular chains that never break. The guys at How Ridiculous dropped a Line-X-coated watermelon from a 150-foot tower, it just bounced like a rubber ball, preventing the fruit from disintegrating on impact.

Believe it or not it's 3D drawing!

Belgrade: Some people are just born with an insane amount of talent. Take 31-year-old Nikola Čuljić, a self-taught artist from Serbia. He has been actively drawing for only three years, yet look at the wonders that he's able to produce with some pencils, markers and pastels. Three years ago, Nikola Čuljić, decided to give it a shot, so he started drawing ultra-realistic portraits. That turned out to be very hard, and the young artist realised that he wasn't very good at it, or, at least not as good as he wanted to be. Čuljić wanted to be the best, and anything less than that just didn't satisfy him, so that's how he got into hand-drawn 3D illusions.

It's hard to believe that a self-taught artist can achieve this kind of results in just three years. Nikola Čuljić's amazing 3D drawings are not for sale, as the artist says that his main goal right now is "to make his name a brand for 3D."

A well-done steak contains enough cancer-causing Heterocyclic Amines (HCAs) and polycyclic aromatic Hydrocarbons (PAHs) to equal those found in 600 cigarettes. If you eat steak, opt for medium well-done. HCAs and PAHs are found in the black charcoal portion of the cooked steak.

How we treated

viral fevers, malaria and others in pre-antibiotic era

Sir,

In reference to my letter 'Viral fevers: Simple clinical clue' (SOM dated June 15), there is a very important factor to keep in mind which is about malignant malaria. In this case also, there is relative bradycardia and it is important to exclude malignant malaria in which patient looks more toxic and signs of upper respiratory infection are generally absent. So, with whatever means available we must differentiate malaria from viral fever as malignant malaria can be fatal if not diagnosed and treated early.

In the forties, when we did not use the term viral fever, perhaps because they were not common, we used the term Pyrexia of unknown origin (PUO). Since there were no antibiotics in the beginning of forties, every fever case was treated with home remedy of raisin or munakka.

A big variety of raisins is heated on coal fire with salt and pepper. Generally for children five or six munakkas were used. It used to taste super and was very energy-giving. There were very few hospitals and people went to hospital very late when all the home remedies failed and patient was very sick.

Gradually, doctors coaxed the patients for coming to hospital for early treatment. And by seventies, in free hospitals like the public sector undertakings, patients started coming for very minor ailments too and by eighties, all our hospitals were flooded for demands of medical certificates along with any slight ailment while the ladies gathered for gossiping with each other since the hospital was near the residential colony.

The result was that we doctors became busier and busier to the point of frustration and had to use real skill to sort out the really sick from malingerers. In hospitals we treated the fever cases with APC (combination of aspirin phenacetin and caffeine). At that time we were not aware of the side effects of aspirin in viral fevers. Aspirin was given only for high fever and others were just given most mix soda sal (called Mixtures)!

For urinary infection which have become so resistant to antibiotics now, we were simply changing the ph of urine. If urine was acidic we gave alkali solution and in alkaline urine, we gave Ammonium Chloride. With this simple treatment, majority responded as in opposite medium the infective organism could not thrive. That is the history of fever management!

Police team headed by two Inspectors formed to nab culprits

Mysuru, June 25 (RK&KS)- A Police team headed by two Inspectors has been formed to nab the gang of about seven persons who had barged into the office of businessman Naveen Kumar Gupta in Gokulam 3rd Stage near Vidyavardhaka Engineering College and making away with Rs. 29,66,840 cash by posing as CBI sleuths on Friday.

The Police team headed by V.V. Puram Inspector C.V. Ravi and City Crime Branch (CCB) Inspector C. Raju have collected phone call details and have begun their investigations.

The Police have suspected the robbery to be the handiwork of some known persons, as the gang looted the cash despite CCTV cameras installed in the premises and later making away with the hard disk of the computer in which the footages of CCTV cameras are recorded and stored.

The Police, based on the information provided by the staff, have collected the call details from various service providers and have lodged a hunt to nab the culprits.

Yesterday, DCP N. Rudramuni, N.R. Sub-Division ACP Umesh G. Shet and CCB ACP C. Gopal who visited the crime spot, collected necessary information and have begun investigations keeping in mind the possibility of the crime due to internal issues and other reasons.

A senior officer said that as no such dacoity case of miscreants barging into an office on the first floor in a residential area and threatening the staff besides looting cash has not taken place in recent years, this case has given rise to many suspicions.

Medea was the daughter of King Aeetes of Colchis, who helped Jason obtain the Golden Fleece. Medea fell in love with Jason and agreed to use her magic to help him, in return for Jason's promise to marry her.

There Medea bore Jason two children before Jason deserted her in order to marry the daughter of Creon, the King of Corinth. Medea got revenge for Jason's desertion by killing the new bride with a poisoned robe and crown which burned the flesh from her body. King Creon died as well when he tried to embrace his dying daughter.

Medea, fled Corinth in a chariot, drawn by winged dragons, which belonged to her grandfather Helios. She took with her the bodies of her two children, whom she had murdered in order to give Jason further pain. Medea then took refuge with Aegeus, the old king of Athens, having promised him that she would use her magic to enable him to have more children.

She married Aegeus and bore him a son, Medus. But Aegeus had another son, Theseus. When Theseus returned to Athens, Medea tried to trick her husband into poisoning him. She was unsuccessful, and had to flee Athens, taking Medus with her. After leaving Athens, Medus became king of the country which was later called Media.

UoM Syndicate cancels 'Life-Long Distinguished Professor' status

One has to be a 'Distinguished Professor' to understand another, says former VC Prof. Rangappa

Mysuru, June 25 (NNN)- The University of Mysore's Syndicate meeting held on June 22, after a long gap, had many items on its agenda that were discussed. However, the proceedings have to be tabled in the next meeting.

When the issue for the Statute for the creation of 'Life-Long Distinguished Professor' in the university came up, a few members, referring to the Government letter replying to the query regarding the creation of the post (dated 19-07-2016), a copy of which is available with Star of Mysore, questioned, "This concept is not adopted in any of the Universities in India. When such is the case, whey there is a necessity to have such a 'Distinguished Person' in the University?

The letter also stated, "...further, there is no procedure for removal of person. Only the post comes to an end, after his death. The maximum term of the said post is of five years or the age of seventy five years, whichever is earlier."

According to a source in the University, the issue was discussed at length and placing the government letter dated 20-02-2017, (a copy of which is with SOM) that had rejected the creation of the 'Distinguished Professor,' the decision was taken to cancel the appointment of such professors.

The question now doing the rounds is what will happen to some of the 'Distinguished Professors' already in the panel in the University and the list looks literally like a 'who is who'. They are Prof. H.A. Ranganath former Director, NAAC, Prof. Goverdhan Mehta, Researcher and Chemical Scientist, Prof. T.V. Ramakrishanan, Theoretical Physicist, Prof. Mewa Singh, Specialist in Ecology and Animal Behaviour, Prof. Tapas Kundu, molecular biologist and the head of Transcription and Disease Laboratory of Jawaharlal Nehru Centre for Advanced Scientific Research, and Prof K.S. Rangappa, former Vice Chancellor, University of Mysore.

Reacting to the decision of the Syndicate, Prof. Rangappa said, "How can they say that there are no distinguished professors in other universities? Banaras Hindu University and many IITs have 'Distinguished Professors'. Besides, when I was the VC, we had written to the Governor and got his permission."

According to Prof. Rangappa, the most important thing here is that the University is not paying any money to the 'Distinguished Professors'. "In fact if a University has such distinguished persons, it enhances the reputation of the University. And, also, if no other university in the country has this category of professors, should not the Government give credit to University of Mysore for this great initiative?" he asked.

Finally, he said, "I have no issue with it if they want to take it back. After all, one has to be a distinguished professor to understand another. The way the University is functioning now-a-days, being pulled in all directions, makes me feel sad."

Prof Mewa Singh said, "I have been appointed 'Distinguished Professor' and the grant of Rs. 15 lakh I have got is from the Department of Science and Technology. I don't think I will be affected by this decision."

Ambedkar statue

The decision to install a statue of Dr. Ambedkar also came up for discussion and it was decided to write to the Government and take its permission before the work can be started.

The move to shift University College of Fine Arts to the Karnataka State Dr Gangubai Hangal Music and Performing Arts University was rejected as the members felt that the University of Mysore should have a music and performing arts department of its own.

CII's Session on Investment

Opportunities in Capital Markets

Mysuru, June 25- The Confederation of Indian Industry (CII), Mysuru, had organised a Session on Investment Opportunities in Capital Markets on Saturday. The event held at Hotel Quroum witnessed participation of entrepreneurs from various firms across Mysuru.

Various experts from the related fields delivered talks on Indian economy, investment opportunities and right planning with respect to investments in the current situation of the Indian economic market.

Dr. Sudhir Kamath, Assistant Professor - Finance MYRA School of Business, who spoke on "Indian Economy," enlightened the participants on various ups and downs of the country's growth rate and GST factors.

"India is witnessing a trend for transformation today. Unlike earlier when cast and creed related decisions would affect our country's election of employees, the same decision-making trend is now shifting towards reforms and development, which is a great improvement, though not many might agree," he said and added that India's macro economic data points continue to remain strong and thus India will still tend to remain a fast growing G20 economy.

Speaking of the economy of other countries, he said Chinese economy has been showing a positive growth and added: "Going ahead the county specific parameters along with policies adopted by US or Chinese President and their price trajectory will impact sentiments in FY 2017."

He called upon the gathering to have a transparency in auctioning assets and said that things like JAM (Jandhan, Aadhaar and Mobile) are very important to improve the delivery of government services. Money Management Coach, Simple Equation, Harish Rao, spoke on "Investment Opportunities in Today's India." Keeping the common man in India on mind, he dwelt on various aspects one has to keep in mind to witness a good economical growth for a better future in terms of the right investment plans made.

"Investment is a huge topic but it is the common man who always gets affected severely in terms of investments. We often tend to ignore matters like not considering tax payments rightly, not realising that the inflation risks are very high and more. We should hence always keep inflation issues in mind and make right investment, should protect our current purchasing powers and view risk factors in the right perspective that we often tend to ignore," he felt and added "we should also review our investments every year which 80 percent of the Indians tend to miss upon always."

Stating that it is good to invest in mutual investment in today's market trend because they have diversification, he also said that it is good to save money and commit to oneself because an income minus savings is always equal to expenses.

Lokkur Investment Advisors Pvt Ltd., MD Bharathram Lokkur gave an overview on the "Equity Markets." Earlier, CII Mysuru Finance and Taxation Convenor S. Raman Kumar welcomed.

123 Dead, 100 injured as oil tanker catches fire in Pakistan

Islamabad, June 25 - At least 123 people were killed and scores injured in a fire that erupted after an oil tanker overturned in central Pakistan early this morning as crowds rushed to collect fuel, an official said.

The tanker carrying 40,000 litres of fuel overturned on a main highway while travelling from Karachi to Lahore, near the town of Ahmedpur East in Punjab. Details were unclear but some witnesses suggested the tanker had suffered a burst tyre, said regional police chief Raja Riffat.

"When it turned over the residents of the nearby village of Ramzanpur Joya rushed to the site with buckets and other containers, and a large number of people on motorcycles also came and started collecting the spilling fuel," Riffat said.

"After about 10 minutes, the tanker exploded in a huge fireball and enveloped the people collecting petrol. It was not clear how the fire started." Television footage showed shooting flames and a thick plume of smoke as fire-fighters battled to extinguish the blaze.

The charred wreckage of dozens of motorcycles and cars could be seen scattered on the highway, along with kitchen utensils, pots, water coolers, jerry cans and buckets which victims had brought to collect the petrol. "Many bodies could not be identified as they have been charred very badly," Riffat said.

Siddu grew to become CM because of JD(S): HDK

Mandya, June 25 (US&NG)- Former Chief Minister and State JD(S) President H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) accompanied by his wife Anitha, visited Kalabhyraveshwara Swamy temple in Adichunchanagiri in Nagamangala taluk of Mandya district yesterday as part of Amavasya and offered prayers.

Speaking to reporters later, Kumaraswamy said that Siddharamaiah grew to the level of Chief Minister only because of JD(S) which made him an MLA, a Minister and Deputy Chief Minister. He hence asserted that Siddharamaiah has no moral right to comment on JD(S) as a father-son party.

Continuing, Kumaraswamy pointed out that Siddharamaiah was grooming his son Dr. Yathindra for politics. He contended that JD(S) has always been in the forefront in fighting for the welfare of farmers.

When reporters asked about Bhavani Revanna and Prajwal Revanna contesting the Assembly elections in 2018, Kumaraswamy categorically said that the decision will be taken only by JD(S) Supremo H.D. Devegowda.

Vishwanath meets HDK

Surprisingly, former MP A.H. Vishwanath, who quit the Congress party three days ago, arrived in Adichunchanagiri and visited the temple to offer puja along with Kumaraswamy, raising speculations of the former joining JD(S). However, Vishwanath told reporters that it was a courtesy and casual meeting with Kumaraswamy. He added that he would seek the opinion of the activists of his constituency before jointing any party. However, Kumaraswamy told reporters that it was better for Vishwanath to join JD(S) who has quit Congress having been disgusted with the unilateral and dictatorial behaviour of Siddharamaiah.

Voices from the Grassroots

The joy of giving...

There are those who give with joy, and that joy is their reward. — Kahlil Gibran

By Dr. R. Balasubramaniam

Running a non-profit is not as easy as it sounds. Apart from the image that the sector generates, the constant uncertainties of funding and resource mobilisation, the lack of high-quality talent, the changing demands of accountability and prevailing statutory laws, and most importantly the evolving nature of the world of social development itself, all pose great survival challenges. While all these factors make high demands, it is resource mobilisation that takes away a major chunk of the time and energy of leaders of the non-profits. We at SVYM are also not immune to these pressures and we saw a major crisis that emanated last year.

The Government of India undertook a paradigmatic policy shift 2 years ago and decided to transfer 42% of its resources to the State Governments. While this is a major milestone in the history of India's federal structure, it affected many non-profits like ours. The Indian Government decided that 'social development' is mostly a State subject and the States now needed to fund all such development programs from their own resources. In line with this thinking, funding to SVYM for running the tribal hospital, tribal school and the mobile health unit was abruptly stopped from last year. While this sent our programmes into a toss, we could not suddenly stop health and education services to the indigenous communities. We felt truly caught between the 'devil and the deep sea' with the Government funding stopping on one side and the communities not being able to or willing to pay for the cost of services on the other. This is the time when we truly understood that in the last three decades and more of SVYM's existence, Indian philanthropy had also evolved and matured. This was also the time that the people of India in general and of Mysuru in particular, rose to the occasion and donated generously to ensure that our health and education programmes do not cease to function.

Until the 1800s, giving in India was largely religious in nature and motivated by the search for individual salvation. Later, philanthropy also began to be directed toward social causes such as education and women's rights. Throughout the 20th century, leading Indian industrialists established foundations and other charitable institutions of national importance, some of which were partly inspired by the country's freedom movement. The last decade has seen a major shift in the number of people who are donating, the causes that they are supporting, the new CSR Act that has come into place and the changing nature of non-profits themselves. Donors are also contributing more and donating to a larger pool of non-profit organisations, giving philanthropy a much higher public profile. All of this has put philanthropy in India significantly ahead of that in other countries with similar levels of prosperity. This growth trend is showing a continuous upward trajectory. In fact, more than a third of current donors expect their donations to increase in the next five years. And as the nation implements the CSR regulations under the new Companies Act, there will be a positive disruption in the philanthropy space, bringing in more corporate donors and bringing about greater accountability and transparency.

Bain's 'India Philanthropy Report'mentions that 28% of the adult population donated money and 21% donated their time in 2013. This means a staggering increase of more than 100 million more Indians making donations in cash or time than in 2009. What in 2009 was a tiny sapling is now a resilient tree in bud, awaiting its first blooms.The November 2012 'India Giving Report' by Charities Aid Foundation (CAF) found that philanthropy in India has the potential to soar in the next decade, with more than half-a-billion-people giving for religious and charitable reasons each year.Overall, the report found that most people in India — 84% of the 836 million adults — give at least once a year.What is remarkable is that philanthropic donations in India are ahead of donations in other developing countries. India is a global outlier, with a larger percentage of its population making charitable donations than other countries at its level of prosperity elsewhere in the world. As a consequence of this growth, India is now No. 91 on the World Giving Index, up from No. 134 in 2010.

To sustain and grow this interest in philanthropy, there are several issues that non-profit organisations also must address. Donor apathy and a general mistrust of non-profit organisations and their operations are widespread. The space is dominated by a large number of "disconnected" donors who donate out of guilt or due to personal relationships rather than a personal connection to the cause.

They demand low overheads due to their lack of faith in non-profits and this generally affects the quality of the services rendered by the NGOs. There are also a large number of small non-profits that lack adequate transparency, sophistication and organisational capacity, which make them less credible to donors. Non-profits need to develop better accountability& transparency measures, put in responsive reporting systems, deliver to communities on the social commitments made, build sustainable relationships and learn to use technology and social media to communicate their successes to their stakeholders. Government's decreasing spending on social development needs alternate but efficient and effective partnerships to emerge in the non-government and private space. This can happen when genuine, transparent and accountable non-profits partner with this growing number of philanthropists.

The constructive evolution and growth of the Indian philanthropic scene gives organizations like SVYM much needed confidence that our work will not dry up for want of support. And like the old adage goes, 'no good work will ever stop due to want of support' and whether it is the palliative care project that is today fully supported by the people of Mysuru or the tribal development projects that we are implementing, we are confident that resources available locally will be more willingly shared by donors.

Mysuru girl making waves in Sandalwood

"Even from a young age, I had dreamt of entering the world of films. Because of the encouragement from my father Prakash, mother Shoba and sister Anusha, I entered the industry. After acting in four films, my desire is to achieve more and more. Having learnt Bharatanatyam and western dance styles, I will continue to act in films that will bring me laurels," says Akhila, the Rising Star.

By M. T. Yogesh Kumar

Cinema, the make-believe world has, as much glamour and glitter, as it has heartburn. Unless one has a Godfather, it is very difficult to make a mark in this industry. In spite of so many pitfalls, a Mysuru girl is making waves in Sandalwood, drawing the attention of everyone. The young talented, charming girl has her roots in Kadanga village of Virajpet Taluk in Kodagu. She is, Akhila Prakash, 22, daughter of Annambira Prakash, working in KSRP as Inspector and mother Shoba, a PE teacher in a Government School at N.R. Mohalla. They are residents of Teachers Layout in city.

Akhila, who completed her PU in Teresian College, dreamt of becoming an actor from a very young age. Her father, mother and her elder sister Anusha, who is working in Infosys, fostered her dreams that are the secret of her success today. She completed B.Com through distance learning and participated in Season-3 audition of a private channel, titled, "Pyate Hudugi, Halli Lifu," where she was selected, paving the way for her to enter the world of greasepaint. She was one of the favourites in the reality show, which led to a promising career in films.

Akhila then joined the one-month acting course offered by well-known filmmaker Nagathihalli Chandrashekar and honed her acting skills. This has resulted in two film offers to act as heroine. The first film she has acted in the lead role is 'Sojiga.' Seeing her acting abilities, the Directors offered her another film titled 'Ganchali,' in which she is again starring as the lead actor.

As she has done full justice to her roles, Akhila will be cast opposite Kashinath in his 50th movie 'Olu Muniswamy,' with Niranjan Wadiyar in the lead. She is now shooting for this film. Her fourth film is 'Kuyukti,' and with this, she is truly on her way to establish herself as one of the leading actors in Sandalwood.

Kidambi Srikanth wins

Australian Open Super Series

Beats Chinese shuttler Chen Long in finals

Sydney, June 25- India shuttler Kidambi Srikanth has been on a roll in the past two weeks — he has beaten the World No. 1 Son Wan Ho twice and beaten the top-ranked Chinese shuttler Shi Yuqi twice. Overall, he has now reached three straight Super Series finals that he's played — Singapore, Indonesia and now Australia.

He has thus become only the fifth player in the world to contest three consecutive Super Series finals.

Today, he took on Olympic champion Chen Long and emerged victorious in straight games in the Australian Open Super Series Final.

World No. 11 Srikanth exhibited another flawless performance to beat Chen Long and registered his first victory over Long in the sixth meeting, defeated the Olympic champion in straight games 22-20, 21-16 to clinch his second successive Super Series title.

The opening game was an evenly contested affair with the two opponents exchanging the lead. At the start, the rallies were a bit long but both resorted to an attacking game from thereon.

However, aided by his deceptive shots and searing smashes, Srikanth took 11-9 lead at the break. After the resumption, Long crawled back with three straight points to take lead at 12-11. The game went down the wire with the Chinese saving a game point with a cross court smash but the 24-year-old Indian eventually prevailed to win it 22-20 and take 1-0 lead in 23 minutes.

He was in red-hot form in the second game where he bossed over Long after a engrossing rally to win the first point with a 323 kph winner. But Srikanth raced to a 6-2 lead over the current All England Champion and in a similar fashion to the opening game, took a 11-9 lead at the short break. Unlike the first game where Long launched a comeback, here Srikanth was in no mood to relent, opening a five-point lead at 19-15. And then sealed the game and the title at 21-16 to win the singles title.

ICC Women's World Cup 2017

South Africa Vs Pakistan

Leicester, June 25- The current South African national team will look to emulate their predecessors from 2000 with a fine show in the 11th edition of the World Cup. The Dane van Niekerk-led side will open their 2017 World Cup campaign against Pakistan at Grace Road. With the likes of Mignon du Preez, Marizanne Kapp, van Niekerk, Lizelle Lee, Laura Wolvaardt, Sune Luus, Shabnim Ismail and Trisha Chetty in their ranks, African country can be considered as the darkhorses of the Tourney.

Du Preez, who captained South Africa in over 40 ODIs, is the most experienced cricketer in the team. Star performer Lee, who idolizes Lance Klusener, can pack a punch with the willow in hand. Van Niekerk, the captain, has been struggling with a foot injury but is expected to play in their opening game. The legspinning all-rounder is arguably the best player in the current line-up. One of the main strengths of the South African side is the kind of variety they have in the bowling line-up.

South Africa's record against Pakistan has been impressive in recent times, winning four of their last five ODIs against the Asian country. Incidentally, the two countries have never played an ODI in England.

Pakistan, their opponents, progressed to the World Cup via Qualifiers where they finished fourth in the Super Six Stage. Pakistan come into the tournament on the back of ODI whitewashes at the hands of New Zealand, England and West Indies.

It perhaps resulted in Pakistan's selectors ringing in a raft of changes. Sabih Azhar, the former Rawalpindi pacer, replaced Kabir Khan as the coach. Wicket-keeper Sidra Nawaz has made her way back into the set-up after missing the World Cup qualifiers due to injury. Asmavia Iqbal and Kainat Imtiaz, the two medium pacers, Diana Baig and Marina Iqbal, both all-rounders, and uncapped Waheeda Akhtar have also been picked.

Their win over West Indies during the warm up should serve the other teams a timely reminder about what Pakistan can achieve on their day.

Pakistan will depend on their captain, Sana Mir, to tie down South Africa's formidable batting line-up with her tidy off-spinners.

WORD OF THE DAY

Volplaneplay

Pronunciation: VAHL-playn.
Meaning: To glide in or as if in an airplane.
Origin: Vol plané (meaning "gliding flight") was a phrase used by 19th-century French ornithologists to describe downward flight by birds; it contrasted with vol à voile ("soaring flight"). Around the time Orville and Wilbur Wright were promoting their latest "aeroplane" in France, the noun and the verb volplane soared to popularity in America as terms describing the daring dives by aviators. Fly Magazine reported in 1910, "The French flyers are noted for their thrilling spirals and vol planes from the sky." The avian-to-aviator generalization was fitting, since the Wright brothers had studied the flight of birds in designing their planes.
Example: "With uncanny calm, Fauchard switched off his engine as if he were preparing to volplane to the ground in an unpowered landing." — Clive Cussler, Lost City, 2004

THE ODD WORD

Enantiodromia

The conversion of something into its opposite.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A bunch of fives

Meaning: A fist. The fives are the five fingers; It refers to boxing and how the five fingers come together for the same.

Origin: The phrase appears in print in 1825, in Charles Westmacott's The English Spy:
"With their bunch of fives."
It is also reported as appearing, slightly earlier, in Boxiana by Pierce Egan, 1821. Boxiana is a classic work on boxing history and folklore, and just the place to look for such a reference, but it isn't easy to obtain copies of it these days, so that hasn't been confirmed here as yet.
Example: He closed his bunch of fives when threatened by the police officer but then resorted to his cool almost instantly.
